

Mokena Man Victim of Reckless Autoist

HERBERT HOHENSTEIN RUN DOWN CROSSING STREET; SKULL IS FRACTURED; TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Herbert Hohenstein of Mokena is in the Silver Cross hospital at Joliet with a fractured skull as the result of being run over by a reckless auto driver Tuesday night. Mr. Hohenstein who is employed in Chicago, had just gotten off the Rock Island west bound train due here at 6:15 p. m., and was crossing the street near the Cooper & Hostert Garage when he saw a car approaching from the east. He waited for the car to pass and was starting to walk across the street when a speeding Ford truck coming from the west struck him before he could get out of the way. The driver did not stop but stepped on the gas instead and got away as quickly as he could, so as not to be identified.

Leon Tonn who had been walking with Mr. Hohenstein and who had crossed the street ahead of him, turned about to speak to his friend and was surprised to see him lying in the road. Help was summoned at once and Mr. Hohenstein was taken in the Cooper & Hostert garage and Dr. Ernest G. McMahon was called. Mr. Hohenstein was unconscious, but aside from cuts in his face and on his head, no broken bones were found by Dr. McMahon. After a short time Mr. Hohenstein regained consciousness and was able to sit up. Just about this time his father, Simon Hohenstein got off the next train from Joliet and attracted by the crowd at the garage he stopped in and was horrified to find that his son had been injured. The latter with his father and Dr. McMahon wards he was seized with convulsions. He was at once rushed to the Silver Cross hospital by Dr. McMahon accompanied by his father and his uncle, Nicholas Geuther. An X-ray was taken at once which showed that Mr. Hohenstein's skull was fractured.

At the latest reports Mr. Hohenstein was resting easily and his chances for recovery are good.

Immediately after the accident, officer John Frisch and Barney Hostert chased after the speeding Ford truck, but could find no trace of it as it had evidently turned off on a side road. There were all kinds of conflicting stories regarding the speeding truck, some being that a boy and girl were driving it.

This accident shows that Mokena has got to do something to stop speeding on the streets of the village. It is a known fact that speed laws are not considered in Mokena as it is nothing uncommon to see autos race thru the main street of the town from 30 to 40 miles an hour. Most of the cars never run less than 20 to 25 miles per hour. Children and reckless drivers are to be seen almost every day driving cars at law breaking speeds. At night cars come thru here without having their tail lights lit and often with only one headlight lit or else with glaring headlights. It is up to our village board to take action that will end this reckless driving.

A law must be passed that will prevent children and fools from operating cars and that will cause parents who allow children under age to drive their cars to be arrested and fined. The best way to cur reckless driving is to take away the auto license of the driver or owner of the car. There is no excuse for darn fool driving and drastic measures are the only means by which offenders can be brought to time

Hurt In Auto Crash at Orland

An auto was ditched on the concrete road near Orland on Keene Ave., Tuesday afternoon. It is understood that some of the occupants of the car were injured, but no one seems to know much about the accident.

Two Injured When Car Skids And Hits Pole

Mrs. LeRoy Eaton of Joliet daughter of Geo. Powers, well known Joliet Contractor and sister of Ray Powers, well known Mokena farmer, figured in a serious auto accident last Saturday noon.

Mrs. Eaton and her brother were driving toward Mokena in the latter's Studebaker touring car, Mrs. Eaton being at the wheel. When a short distance west of Mokena the car suddenly left the road and headed for a ditch on the left side of the highway. Before Mrs. Eaton could get the car under control it had struck a telephone pole which side swiped the car tearing away the entire left side of the car. Mrs. Eaton was crushed between the car seat and the pole, suffering a fractured pelvis and two broken bones in her left elbow besides being badly cut in the face by the broken glass of the windshield and broken parts of the steering wheel.

She was brushed out of the car and was found about 12 feet back of the car after it had stopped running. Her brother Ray, who was sitting on the right hand side was hurled out of the car and sustained injuries to his chest, arm and leg and was also cut and Employees of the Bowman Dairy Plant in Mokena were attracted to the scene of the accident by Mrs. Eaton's agonizing screams. Autos were quickly brought in use and she was hurried to the office of Dr. E. G. McMahon in Mokena who rendered first aid following which she was removed to Silver Cross in Joliet. It is said she will recover if no other complications set in.

Mrs. Eaton's mother who was at the Powers farm was notified of the accident and was brought to Mokena and accompanied her daughter to the hospital. Mr. Powers was also notified at once as also was Mrs. Eaton's husband who is employed at the McKenna Mills.

The wrecked car was towed to the Cooper & Hostert garage at Mokena where it is to be repaired.

THIS YEAR A TOUGH ONE, CARTOONIST DECLARES

The campaign of 1924 is a hard one on cartoonists, according to Charles Sughrue, the creator of Mickie the Printer's Devil, the popular comic strip now appearing on the Funny Page of The NEWS-BULLETIN.

"Gone are the days of Roosevelt, Taft and Wilson, whose physical makeups lent themselves admirably to the purposes of the cartoonist," Sughrue says. "This year finds the cartoonist up against a real problem. Coolidge and Davis offer no possibilities at all, and while La Follette with his prominent shock of white hair makes an easier subject, yet all three are about in the same class," he continued.

"Charles Bryan, with his skull cap, eye glasses and long mustaches, makes a much better subject than either Dawes or Wheeler, although Dawes' pipe helps out a lot."

Uncle Sam is the easiest of all characters to draw, according to Sughrue, whose drawings have become famous from coast to coast. In addition to Mickie, which is the most widely used of all comic strips, Sughrue is the originator of "People of Our Town," "Bill Booster" and "Th' old Grouch."

Sughrue was raised in the news paper business on the Stockton (Ill.)

MISS GERTRUDE REIBER OF TINLEY PARK IS AN AUTUMN BRIDE

A very pretty wedding was solemnized Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Reiber in Tinley Park, when their daughter, Miss Gertrude, became the bride of Mr. Norman Schoeneck, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Schoeneck of Mokena.

Promptly at the appointed hour which was 7 o'clock, the bridal party entered the living room to the strains of the wedding march, played by Miss Ariel Reiber, sister of the bride. Rev. Wm. Kreis, pastor of the St. John Evangelical Church of Mokena, performed the ceremony. The bride was prettily gowned in white satin crepe and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley and wore a jeweled head band.

The bride was attended, by her sister, Miss Arle Reiber and Miss Mabel Schoeneck, the latter a sister of the groom. The bridesmaids wore gowns of rose and silver taffeta. They wore corsage bouquets of sweetheart roses and also wore jeweled head bands.

Following the ceremony, a wedding supper was served by Mrs. J. G. Reiber of Chicago, Mrs. Albert Boerner and Mrs. Henry Klepper to the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Edward Reiber, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schoeneck, Mrs. Anna Pigors, Mrs. Bertha Smith, Rev. Wm. Kreis, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Schoeneck, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Warning and sons and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schweser and daughter.

The couple received many beautiful and useful gifts. Their many friends wish them much luck and happiness. They will reside in Tinley Park.

AN APOLOGY

When Peter Homering and Alloys Perschera purchased 3 iron keys at our store I tipped off officer John Frisch that I could give him a clue as to the attempted robberies recently made in Mokena and told him that Mr. Homering and Mr. Perschera had purchased 3 keys.

As this has cast a serious reflection on the characters of both Mr. Homering and Mr. Perschera and as they are entirely innocent in this matter, I hereby publicly extend my apologies to them for the statement that I made to officer Frisch concerning them.

(Signed) Milton Krapp.

ORLAND BOARD AND MAYO STILL AT OUTS

Orland is having a sensation of its own. The village board and Mayor Ratschke are on the "outs." At the last meeting, Mayor Ratschke still sat tight of his refusal to pay the salary of Albert Hentsch, motor cop. The board, siding in with Mr. Hentsch, instructed the clerk of the board not to issue any vouchers for any other claims until the mayor pays Hentsch.

Both sides are sitting tight and it is said the matter will come to a final show down at the regular meeting next Monday night.

Herald, owned by his father. At an early age he showed a fondness for drawing, and upon leaving grammar school he entered the Chicago Art institute, where he specialized in drawing, painting, illustration and cartooning.

After graduation he attracted attention with his drawings which revealed typical glimpses of life in the smaller community. These scored immediate success and he decided to confine his efforts to this type of work. Despite attractive offers to move to large cities, he remains in his home town, which, he says, provides him with an adequate back ground and is responsible for his success.

ILLINOIS RANKS HIGH IN HEALTH

Has Lowest Death Rate of Any of Big States of the Union.

Under Gov. Len Small, Illinois is keeping abreast of the times in public health service, and in several ways is out in front.

Feeling the good health of the people was a prime factor in achieving happiness and prosperity, Governor Small has sought to make the state health department highly efficient. The reports show the state is decidedly healthy and that it is growing more so each day.

One of the outstanding things in the report is that in the last three years there were 32,300 fewer deaths than during the three previous years, although there was an increased population of 250,000. The department figures 40,000 persons are alive in Illinois today who would have been dead had the previous mortality rate prevailed. So remarkable was this decrease that it gave Illinois the lowest death rate of any big state in the Union.

The decreased death rate undoubtedly results from less contagion and more attention to one's well being. Less contagion results from better work on the part of the department of health. There were nearly 300,000 fewer cases of contagion since 1921 than there were in the three previous years.

The department figures 30 lives were saved daily by better public health supervision. In the three years past the department of health made a big drive for birth registration. The registration was brought up to requirements and the state was admitted to the United States Birth Registration area.

In recent months the department has started an agitation favoring an annual physical examination for adults. Over 50,000 adults have been examined since 1921 and advised of their condition. An organization has been perfected for carrying on this campaign.

Since 1921 the health department has introduced many new services. Included among these are the following: Medical examination of 100,239 rural school children; investigation of every reported case of smallpox and typhoid fever; carried on a diphtheria eradication campaign, improved the organization of local and county health agencies; started a mosquito eradication movement; inaugurated a safe milk movement which has been followed in 85 cities.

In this three-year period smallpox was reduced by 5,000 cases; typhoid by 283 deaths; and the death rate per 100 cases from diphtheria reduced from 9 to 7. Six new all-time local health units are functioning and 300 public health nurses are co-operating.

The average death rate in Illinois for the years 1918-1920 was 13.6. For the years 1921-1923 it was 11.4, a decrease of 2.2 per thousand. In the first three-year period 35,898 babies under a year old died; in the last three-year period 31,671 died, a decrease of 4,227.

The total cases of contagious diseases in the state during the 1918-1920 period was 810,975. During the 1921-1923 period it was 516,226, a decrease of 293,849.

With Len Small as governor this work will be carried on and bettered.

Robbers Busy at Mokena

Mokena has been having a series of petty thieving cases during the past week. About half a dozen reports were made of attempted robberies, but none were successful.

Last Saturday night about 11:30 o'clock, Mrs. L. Rosenberg heard someone at the rear kitchen door. When she turned on the light she saw the door knob moving and heard someone pressing hard against the door. She ran upstairs and screamed for help. Emil Mau heard her and asked what the trouble was and when she told him he reported the matter to Officer John Frisch, who started search for the supposed robber, but could find no trace of him.

Roy Krapp, who came home late the same evening, said a man was standing in the yard and flashed a flash light on him and then ran away.

It is either some half wit attempting to scare women or else an amateur burglar who is working for experience. Some house holders are ready to pump the maulrauder full of lead if he comes around again.

Vote Republican Ticket Straight Voters Are Told

"Vote the Republican ticket straight on Nov. 4th" was the keynote of the Republican rally held at Mokena in the old St. John Evan. church building Wednesday night.

The speakers brought out the big things done by the Republican party. H. Rehn, candidate for State's Attorney of Will County, was the first speaker of the evening. He strongly emphasized the fact that as the country was enjoying an era of prosperity right now, the voters of the nation should continue this era by voting the Republican ticket.

Gus Erickson of Joliet made a strong plea for the $100,000,000 bond issue, declaring it to be the biggest thing for the benefit of the people of the State of Illinois that has ever been voted on. He showed that this issue will not cost the taxpayers one cent, as all of the money required to pay the interest and retire the bonds will come out of the license fees paid by auto owners.

John Walker, candidate for reelection as state representative, gave an interesting talk on the railroad question. He pointed out that if the railroads of the nation were placed under government ownership, it would mean that the people would have to pay more taxes, as the railroads would not be paying any taxes as they would be government property and that the taxes now being paid by the railroads, would have to be paid by the tax payers. He showed the miserable break down of the transportation systems of the nation when the railroads were government controlled during the wretched Wilson administration. He made a strong plea for the Republican ticket, saying that it was the best safeguard of the nation.

Sheriff John Walker, Will County Central Republican committeeman, also made a few remarks in which he reviewed some of the deplorable conditions the country suffered during the Democratic reign of power. He showed how soup-houses were opened and bread lines formed even in Joliet when the mills and factories were closed and the laboring people had nothing to do nor eat. He showed that the Wilson administration was heading in the same direction that the Cleveland administration was in 1893, and that the World War was the only thing that brought a wave of false prosperity to the country and he said we did not want another war in order to have prosperity and

German Police Dogs Used in Tracing Thieves

A large number of chickens were stolen lately from the Johns' farm near Frankfort. Last week German police dogs were used to trace the chicken thieves and the scent led to a number of other nearby chicken houses, thence to the road where it was lost. It is thought the thieves had an auto handy at this point and escaped with their loot.

$100,000,000 Bond Issue

Ought to Be Divided Between Highway Comm.

Levi Doty, of Frankfort, has asked the News-Bulletin to give his views on the proposed $100,000,000 bond issue. Mr. Doty feels that the taxpayers ought to vote against the issue in its present form. If this amount of money is to be spent for hard roads, Mr. Doty feels that the legislature ought to, arrange matters so that the Highway Commissioner of each township in the state would be given a certain amount of state funds with which to build hard roads in his township.

AN ERROR

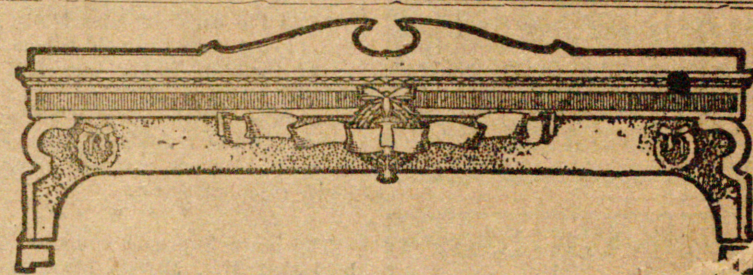

In a statement to The News-Bulletin Mr. Edward McGovney of Mokena states that no judgment was filed against him as stated in an item in last week's issue. He merely made a settlement between himself, W. H. Bechstein, Mokena Hardware Company and Attorney Frank Brumund on certain claim Error in item was caused thru misunderstanding.

that we can have the right kind of prosperity by keeping the Republican party in power.

Paul Wunder, candidate for circuit Clerk and Thomas Sprague, candidate for County Auditor, also made a few brief remarks.

The colored Sunflower Quartet was a big attraction and they took the house by storm again and again.

Mrs. Sullivan, Will County Central Republican Chairwoman, spoke briefly on the work the women of the County are doing for the Republican ticket. She told of the organization in Joliet this week, of the colored womens Republican club. She showed how earnestly these women were working for the Republican party, as they feel that the Republican party has done more for their race than any other party. She urged all the women to go to the polls and vote on Nov. 4th.

Important News Events of the World Summarized

Washington—

President Coolidge, in a letter made public in Washington to Commander Marion Epley, national chairman of the Navy League of the United States, congratulated the organization on its plan to observe again this year, October 27, the birthday of President Roosevelt, as Navy day.

An increase of about 2 per cent in the retail cost of food between August 15 and September 15, was reported by the Department of Labor at Washington.

Prohibition officials at Washington said that almost $8,000,000 will be spent in 1925 to enforce the dry law. A large part will be used to build up the new coast guard cutters, which authorities believe are steadily decreasing liquor smuggling.

John Drew, Al Jolson and 40 other members of the Coolidge and Dawes Stage club, entertained President Coolidge at the White House in Washington.

Traffic through the Panama canal during the fiscal year 1924 amounted to 26,994,710 tons of cargo, carried in 5,230 vessels, and paid tolls amounting to $24,290,963, says a Washington announcement.

Withdrawal of his offer to purchase Muscle Shoals by Henry Ford clears the way for the disposition of the plant through a commission, as suggested by President Coolidge in his message to congress last December.

In an address before a delegation of foreign-born citizens at Washington, President Coolidge declared that America can aid most in settling world disputes and in developing its own world standard by continuing "as an example and a demonstration that peace, harmony and a truly national patriotic sentiment may be established and perpetuated on an American scale."

The ZR-3 was pronounced by Secretary Wilbur, speaking on behalf of the navy at Washington, to be "a symbol of peace and friendship between her builders, her owners and other nations." He said the ship would be rechristened "Los Angeles" when the government formally takes possession.

More than 1,000,000 persons visited national parks and monuments during the 1924 season.

Domestic—

Theodore Roosevelt, Republican nominee for governor of New York, finished a week of campaigning with a record of seventy-two speeches.

Epinaud, noted French race horse that was beaten in three international specials on American tracks, will be shipped to France at once. Eugene Leigh, his trainer, explained that Epinaud came out of the Laurel race with a cracked quarter that precludes him from going to the post again this year.

Miss Montie Le May of St. Paul, Minn., parachute jumper, was killed at Houston, Texas, when she leaped from a balloon over a local amusement park and her parachute failed to open.

With the death of Miss Molly Fleming, twenty-three-year-old school teacher of Conklin, Mich., who died from injuries suffered when she was beaten with an ax in the rear of her schoolhouse, police redoubled their efforts to locate Egbert "Happy" Dyke, alleged rejected suitor.

The state Supreme court of Texas held that Mrs. Miriam Ferguson and all other women of the state are qualified to hold public office.

A colony intended to establish American title to Wrangell island, in the Arctic ocean, north of Siberia, was carried off by the Russian armed transport Red October, which raised the Russian flag there August 20. It was learned at Nome, Alaska. The news came from Whalen, by which name Alaskans call that part of Siberia extending inland and north and south from Bering strait.

Edward McGrath of Marion, Ohio, and Samuel Miller of Buffalo died from injuries received in an automobile smashup near Benton Harbor, Mich.

Two men were instantly killed and a third had a miraculous escape from death in a midair collision 1,300 feet above Coronado, Cal., of two naval airplanes. The dead are: Ensign Merritt J. Flanders; Robert H. Kerr, aviation chief machinist's mate. Gunner William Cole dropped to land safely in a parachute.

Currency and securities that may aggregate $110,000 were obtained by five bandits who held up the Springfield State Savings bank near Jackson, Mich.

VOTE!

Vote on Election Day, Tuesday, November 4!

Vote as you please—but vote!

The suffrage is not your inherent, God-given right. The suffrage is a privilege given you by your country, the United States of America, the richest, the most powerful, the freest nation of earth and of all lands the most desirable. It is a privilege that carries with it the responsibility of the good American citizen to carry on the work of the patriots who gave us the Declaration of Independence.

Abraham Lincoln, fifty-nine years ago, asked for renewed vows of fealty "that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth." How shall that government live—if the people do not vote? Don't be a slacker—in this duty of citizenship. Vote—or shut up!

The Stillman divorce case is at an end. An informal truce, which may eventually pave the way to a complete reconciliation, has been agreed to by James A. Stillman and his wife, Mrs. Anne U. Stillman. The reconciliation followed the marriage of the Stillman's daughter Anne to Henry Pomerooy Davison of New York.

Gov. Gen. Leonard Wood, after touring Manila, P. I., to observe the situation created by clashes between Chinese and Filipinos, ordered four companies of constabulary held in readiness to suppress any outbreak beyond the control of the police.

More than a hundred men, women and children packed into a wooden grandstand and in Roseland Panthers' football park at Chicago were injured when a section of the seating collapsed.

An attack on a submarine chaser by six torpedo-launching seaplanes will be one of the feature events of the mimic naval warfare to be staged during the aerial maneuvers over Chesapeake bay, October 25.

The giant Zeppelin airship ZR-3 ended its long flight across the Atlantic ocean from Germany. Several airplanes from Mitchell field escorted the dirigible to its mooring mast at Lakehurst, N. J.

The most important merger of shipping interests of the Great Lakes was revealed at Chicago with the announcement of a consolidation of the Goodrich Transit company with the Graham & Morton line. The two concerns are the oldest and most important on Lake Michigan and the assets of the merger total $5,000,000.

Speaking before a gathering of publishers and newspaper, magazine and advertising celebrities of the nation at Chicago, former Judge K. M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, urged conscription of voters with heavy penalties for the man or woman who fails to cast a ballot.

Personal—

Frank H. Osborn, nationally known authority on marine insurance and former Chicago resident, died at his home in New Rochelle, N. Y.

President Coolidge and leading figures in public life at the nation's capital paid their last respects to Herman Henry Kohlsaat, former Chicago newspaper publisher, who died as a result of a paralytic stroke at the home of Herbert C. Hoover, secretary of commerce, in Washington, D. C.

Thomas Melghan, motion picture actor, was elected shepherd of the Lambs club at New York. He was said to be the first motion picture actor to have been elected head of the exclusive actors' organization.

The President and Mrs. Coolidge attended the funeral of Senator Frank Brandegee of Connecticut, who committed suicide in Washington.

Foreign—

Twenty-five persons were killed and 18 injured in a stampede in a moving picture house in Athens, Greece, caused by a false alarm of fire. Most of the victims were children. It is believed the alarm was raised by pickpockets.

More than 300,000 persons stood all day along the line of march from the birthplace of the late Anatole France in Paris to the little cemetery eight miles away, where he was buried.

A dispatch to London from Constantinople says 1,000 Greeks have been arrested for expulsion from Turkish territory under the agreement for the exchange of populations.

Among the candidates nominated for parliament were forty-one women. Fifty-four members of the new parliament are being returned unopposed.

It was proved conclusively by German police of Berlin that the Russo-German Communists are supplying all fake credentials for Bolshevik agents to operate in America.

English airplanes patrolling the frontier between Iraq and Turkey flew over Cherami October 14, dropped bombs and injured two women, a dispatch to Paris from Angora declared.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Dr. Frederick R. Green,
Editor of "Health."

CRETINISM

ONE of the village characters in the small town in which I grew up was "Little Jo." Everybody in town knew him. Although twenty-five or thirty years old, Jo was only as tall as a ten-year-old boy. He was short and "chunky." His nose was broad and flat and turned up at the end. His cheeks were baggy and hung down like dew-laps. His mouth was large and his lips thick. His voice was a childish high treble, with a muffled quality due to his thick tongue. His hair was heavy and coarse. His large head, set on a short thick neck, seemed almost to grow on his shoulders. His legs were short and heavy. Altogether, he looked like one of the dwarfs Rip Van Winkle found playing ninepins in the Catskills.

Almost every town has one or more of these unfortunates. When Julius Caesar lead his legions into Switzerland he found, among the mountains, many people with swollen necks. This disease, known to the Greeks and Romans, was called goiter. Wherever goiter was common, these dwarfs were found in large numbers. The ancient world regarded dwarfs and deformed persons as freaks of nature and objects of amusement, rather than as victims of disease.

As the Swiss were Christians, these dwarfs were called cretins.

It has taken us nearly two thousand years to learn that these unfortunate beings are not sent into a life of misery and deformity by nature or God to furnish mirth for the ignorant and thoughtless. They are what they are because the chemical laboratory in their bodies is lacking some very necessary equipment.

At the base of the neck in the human body, lies a large gland, the thyroid. Just what part of the body's work it does we do not know. But what happens to the body when the gland is absent we do know.

About fifty years ago, Fagge, a French surgeon, found that the thyroid gland was entirely missing in cretins. If cretinism is due to the absence of the thyroid, then the sensible thing to do is to try and give cretins the thyroid material their bodies are lacking. So they were fed raw thyroid from the calf. These glands are called sweetbreads and are considered great delicacies.

The change which followed was marvelous. It was as if the child had been transformed. The swollen tongue and lips decreased in size, the rough thickened skin became smooth, the body began to grow.

Then it was found that tablets made of the dried thyroid gland were just as good as the fresh gland and much easier to take.

Naturally, the earlier the treatment is begun, the better the results.

SCARLET FEVER AFFECTS HEART

THE most serious effects of scarlet fever are those on the heart and kidneys. The poison of scarlet fever seems to have an especially injurious effect on the heart. This may occur when the germs get into the blood and are carried to the heart. The lining membrane of the heart becomes inflamed and ulcerated. Even if this is not fatal, the trouble is not over. These ulcers, in healing, form bands of scar tissue, which, as they contract, draw the valves of the heart out of shape so that the heart is not able to work properly. Many cases of valvular heart disease, which afflict persons in adult life are due to scarlet fever in childhood. After the heart has once been damaged it never recovers.

The kidneys also very commonly become inflamed in scarlet fever. This condition may not show itself until some time after the attack. The child is apparently recovering rapidly when suddenly, following exposure or chilling, the fever returns with headache, vomiting and loss of appetite. The face is pale and the eyelids swollen. The urine contains albumen, showing that the kidneys are unable to do their work properly. This condition may become rapidly worse. The kidneys may cease to act, the child finally dying in convulsions. Or it may, in mild cases, last for months or even for a year or more, keeping the child in a condition of chronic invalidism.

As the after-effects of this dread disease are quite as serious as the disease itself, every child with scarlet fever should be carefully watched, not only during the acute course of the disease but also until all possible danger has passed. A child may go through the few weeks of the illness in good shape, may be apparently entirely recovered. But if allowed to leave its bed too soon, a sudden exposure may result in a chill or an unwise exertion may bring on a serious and lasting trouble with the heart or kidneys.

Don't take any chance with your child. Better keep it in bed or in the house a few days longer than to let it run outdoors and play as soon as it is able. After the damage is done, it may take months to overcome it, or your child may have to go through life with a crippled heart or weakened kidneys.

Play safe. Don't take any chances. It's better to be safe than sorry.

Gates of Eternity

A lot of prominent writers have been writing pieces—and selling them, too—telling about how near they came to dying in the doctor's last campaign in the abdominal sector. All these fellows have produced only one round trip apiece to the gates of eternity. I can do better than that. So could you.

There was that time when I was a kid, father said: "Take this castor oil." I said: "I'll die first!" I took the castor oil. A close shave, you'll admit.

When I was a very young man I met the most wonderful girl in the world. (No, not that one. The other one.) I told her that if she didn't marry me I would kill myself. The next week she ran off with the druggist's clerk. I shiver even yet when I think of how close I came to doing a good turn for the undertaker.

They had a county fair in the town I was in a couple of years ago. An aviator was taking up passengers for $10 a trip. I didn't go.

And only last week my Uncle Bill told me one of his inimitable stories about Pat and Mike. I nearly died laughing.—Judge.

Heck—Say, have you any idea what you are talking about?

Peck—I don't believe I have. You see, my wife is away and I'm just sort of letting my tongue run loose, so to speak.—Boston Transcript.

Triumph of Art

A young artist out on a sketching trip came across a living specimen of the "barefoot boy with cheek of tan," properly outfitted with rod and string of fish, and for a consideration induced him to pose for a sketch. In a few minutes there came along a man who would have been spotted instantly by a reasonably sophisticated observer as the head, theoretically at least, of a family. For half an hour he stood watching the artist work, then burst out in admiring enthusiasm:

"Well, sir, if that isn't wonderful! Beats all I ever saw!"

"Like the sketch, do you?" the flattered artist responded, with a pleased blush.

"Sketch? Oh, that! Yes, it's all right, I guess. What I mean was the way you managed to keep that boy quiet for so long."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Rain Good for New Suits

Cloth from which suits for men and women are made, is invariably kept in a moist condition when being made up at the mills in order to give strength to the wool and to prevent breakage when it is being woven. A dry atmosphere would mean many "faults" in the piece. For this reason cloth makers are warning the public that rain occasionally will not hurt a new outfit, but on the other hand will do some suits a lot of good. One tailor suggests ten minutes in a misting rain as the best "drink" for a suit, especially in the early days of its life.

Virtue is unexciting, but nobody throws you out when your last nickel is spent.

THIS PRESCRIPTION FOR KIDNEYS

No Drugs—Just Roots and Herbs

6 Ounce Bottle, 75 cents

Years ago Dr. Carey said, "When backache comes get after your kidneys—and don't waste any time."

"Right at the start, go to your druggist and ask for Dr. Carey's Marshroot Prescription No. 777; take it as directed until backache ceases and your eyes are clear and bright."

For more than 40 years, Dr. Carey specialized in diseases of the kidney and bladder, and when in the height of his remarkably busy life he decided to dispense his most effective kidney and bladder prescription through the better druggists, he helped thousands who could not afford to go to him for treatment.

Thousands of unobservant people have kidney ailments and never know it until too late. High colored urine, getting up in the night, and puffy eyes tell the story.

If you even suspect—start today with Dr. Carey's Marshroot Prescription No. 777. It will drive the poison from your kidneys and your druggist knows all about it.

Druggists dispense lots of it. It comes both in liquid and tablet form. It will help you as it has a host of others. If it should not, if you aren't glad in one week's time that you bought it, money gladly returned—and only 75c. If your local druggist hasn't it he can get it from the Carey Medical Laboratories at Elmira, N. Y.

"TREASURE!"

SYNOPSIS.—Thrown from his auto in a New York village, a man is carried unconscious into the home of a Miss Edith Grant. A doctor discovers he has been shot, fatally. Consciousness returning, he babbles of "millions." He begs that Henry Archman, millionaire resident of the vicinity, be sent for, declaring he has important papers for him. Archman cannot be reached by phone, but word is sent that his secretary is on the way. A man announcing himself as Archman's secretary, Akin, arrives, talks with Morbach, and leaves with a package he gives him. Morbach dies. Archman's arrival, with his secretary, reveals that the man posing as Akin is an impostor. Archman denounces Edith Grant as a girl endeavoring to snare his son Harry. Archman, it appears, has yielded to the importunities of his family—his wife, daughters Nellie and Bessie (seventeen years old), and son Harry—and moved to New York in an endeavor to gain recognition by the Four Hundred. They have not succeeded. Mrs. Archman is bitter over her failure, particularly mourning the fact that she has not been "taken up" by a Mrs. Van Kull. Archman orders Nellie to get ready for a long journey with him. He refuses to reveal their destination to his wife, declaring it is "not his secret." Nellie tells Bess she is in love with James Carr, a youth working on Archman's ship, El Rio. She gives Bess a message for him. Archman and Nellie depart. Harry tells Bess of his determination to marry Edith Grant. Mrs. Archman receives a map, with the explanation that it was among Morbach's papers, and suggesting she forward it to Mr. Archman. Lord George Caruthers, traveling Englishman, arrives at the Archman home, by invitation. He makes a good impression. Bess meets Carr and tells him her sister's message. She learns from him that "Edith Grant" is his sister. He says he loves Nellie. Mrs. Archman decides to take Bess and Harry and Caruthers and sail with Captain Bunker on the El Rio to meet her husband.

CHAPTER VI—Continued

"He doesn't go with you, you say?"

"No."

"I'm very glad to hear it," Mrs. Archman stared out on the deck. "Would you mind calling the young people in?" she asked. "I want to tell them."

The three tramped merrily into the chart house. "Hello, mumsy," called Bess. "What's up? You're plotting something. I can see it in your eye. Own up."

Mrs. Archman smiled. "Right," she said. "I've something to tell you. I've decided to take you all with me on the ship to meet your father."

"Wha-a-at? You're joking, mumsy!" It was Bess who cried out.

Mrs. Archman kept her eyes on her daughter. "No; it's true," she said. "Your father needs us and we must go."

Bess showed none of the dejection for which the older woman was looking. Instead, her eyes twinkled. "Good!" she exclaimed. "No more school for yours truly!"

"School!" Mrs. Archman hesitated. Evidently she had forgotten school. "I must take along a governess," she decided.

"A governess!" Bess shrieked.

"Yes! So, captain, there'll be five of us—myself, my son, my daughter, a governess, and at least one maid. Oh! And of course there'll be Mr. Akin. You'll make preparations?"

"Yes, madam."

Mrs. Archman got up. "It will be quite a rush to get ready," she said. "We'd better be about it." She turned to the Englishman. "Lord George," she said, "I'm very sorry to rescind my invitation to you. But you can see how it is. Unless you would like to go with us on the ship—"

"On the ship? Really? How positively ripping! I'll be delighted to go!"

Mrs. Archman colored and caught her breath. She had not had the slightest idea that Lord George would accept. However, she swiftly decided that it was all for the best. She could see the paragraphs in the society news: "Lord George Caruthers is yachting with Mrs. Henry Archman and party—" She turned quickly to him. "Will you come, really?" she exclaimed. "I'm very glad."

"Well, rather! I'll be awfully jolly and all that, you know. Er—where are we going?"

"I don't know. Captain Bunker has sealed orders."

"Sealed orders! Oh, by Jove! I say! That's ripping, you know—positively ripping!"

In various stages of pleasure and dejection, the visitors left the ship. Bess looked about for Mr. Carr, but she did not see him. As a matter of fact, he was on his way to Captain Bunker's cabin, where he had been summoned to receive orders in regard to new fittings for the extra cabins that would be brought into use by the new passengers.

CHAPTER VII

Ship's Company

The first snow of winter was falling thickly as the El Rio chugged downstream between the towering man-made cliffs edged with crowded ships. Besides Mrs. Archman, the El Rio carried as passengers Bess and Harry, Lord George Caruthers, Akin, Miss Denslow, the new governess and Ann Hawkins, a maid. Miss Denslow had been engaged after three days' frantic search for someone qualified for the purpose who was willing to leave town on a sea voyage of indefinite length.

She brought a letter of introduction and recommendation from Miss Van Kull, the daughter of Nicholas Van Kull, on whom Mr. Archman had called with apparently disastrous consequences on the night of the murder. Mrs. Archman had jumped at the chance to repair the breach, and had immediately engaged Miss Denslow tentatively. A little later she had called up Miss Van Kull on the telephone, and though she had not succeeded in getting speech with her, had received assurances that Miss Denslow was everything she should be—a lady, highly educated, companionable, and versatile in her accomplishments—and a warm friend of Miss Van Kull's. This was enough for Mrs. Archman, who had instantly confirmed Miss Denslow's engagement.

Bess, though more or less put out by her failure to escape tutelage, had become speedily reconciled at sight of Miss Denslow, who was a sweet-faced woman of perhaps forty years of age, with white hair, good, though lined complexion, regular features and beautiful white teeth.

The El Rio was a good sea boat. She did not pitch much, and she rolled only in a leisurely fashion that was a guarantee that most of her passengers would soon recover from any sickness that might at first annoy them. In fact, only Mrs. Archman, who had sought her stateroom as soon as the vessel crossed the bar, seemed at all affected. Miss Denslow was still busy in her stateroom, and Akin was tinkering on his typewriter, but the other three were collected on deck. They were all in good spirits, even Harry, who seemed to have recovered from his depression of a few days before. "Well, we're off all right," he observed. "But I wish somebody'd tell me where we're going and what we're going for. We've moved so fast in the last week that I don't know where I'm at, at all."

"The question is, where is father at?" Bess remarked.

"Father? Oh, father and Nellie are roosting on that mysterious island! That's what mother says, anyway. For my part I can't see it."

Lord George chimed in. "It's jolly queer about that map, isn't it, what?" he observed. "As I understand the thing, Mr. Archman doesn't get the map and so he starts for the place shown on it. Then your mother gets it, and we all start for we don't know where. I say it's quite a lark, isn't it?"

"I hope it will turn out to be a lark," Lord George remarked. "I'm beginning to be a little frightened. I think I can't understand why the thief should send the map back to us—if the map really is the one that was stolen. Oh, Miss Denslow! I'm glad you've come on deck, after all. Have you met Lord George Caruthers? Miss Denslow, Lord George!"

Lord George bowed. But as he raised his head, his eyes met those of the governess, and a curious expression of puzzlement came upon his face. Miss Denslow, too, seemed startled.

"It is a pleasure to meet Lord George," she said hastily.

"Ah! Yes! Quite so! It's a great pleasure, I assure you," stammered Lord George. "That is, I mean—haven't I met you before, Miss—Denslow? Did I catch the name? I'm a beastly duffer at catching names, you know."

Miss Denslow bowed. "Yes; it's Miss Denslow," she answered. "I fear it is unlikely that we could have met before. You know I am Miss Archman's governess."

"Governess?"

Harry laughed. "Bess isn't out of school yet, Lord George," he said, "for all she's put up her hair."

"Fancy, now! Oh! I say, I never would have thought it. I wouldn't really. At home, don't you know, a schoolgirl would be still in the nursery. But over here, upon my word, you can't tell them from young ladies."

Bess' teeth clicked viciously. Lord George seemed to be getting on her nerves. But for some reason she made no effort to counter. Instead she carried the conversation back to the earlier topic. "We were talking about our trip and how it will turn out. I suppose you know more or less about it?"

"More or less, yes!" responded Miss Denslow. "Rather less than more, I'm afraid."

"Well, it's this way," Bess recounted the events of the last few days. "We were just trying to figure out why the thief sent the map back," she ended.

Miss Denslow seemed to ponder. "Perhaps he was not a really bad thief," she suggested, rather breathlessly. "Perhaps he was after money and when he got only a map and saw that it wasn't any use to him, he just sent it back."

Bess nodded. "That must be the explanation," she agreed. "But still—"

From forward came four sharp strokes of the ship's bells. At the sound Harry jumped to his feet. "Ten o'clock!" he exclaimed. "Time for Captain Bunker to open those orders of his. I'll go see if he's done it."

Five minutes later he was back. "Captain Bunker says it will be fair and warm by morning," he remarked. "We ought to make more than a hundred miles of southing during the night and that'll make a lot of difference in the temperature."

"Harry!" Bess cried out sharply. "What are you talking about? Hasn't Captain Bunker opened his instructions yet?"

Harry laughed. "Yes; he's opened them," he said. "But it was a case of April fool!"

Lord George and Miss Denslow both turned their heads suddenly. "April fool!" exclaimed the Englishman. "Oh, come now, old chap. It's October and not April. You're spoofing, aren't you?"

"Not a single spoof," rejoined Harry light-heartedly. "Not one! Father never did give anything away till he had to. When Bunker opened the envelope he found another envelope with 'Open this when you get to latitude 19 and longitude 64.' Only that and nothing more."

"Oh!" Lord George settled back in his chair. "My word! It must be something jolly well worth while that we're going after," he said.

Bess, however, was disappointed and showed it. "Well, where is latitude—whatever it is?" she demanded.

"It's off the coast of Haiti," returned Harry.

"Haiti! Good gracious!"

"That's what I say. What do you suppose it's all about?"

Lord George shook his head. "Couldn't it be treasure?" he suggested hopefully.

"Treasure!" Bess screamed. "Oh, I never hoped for anything so splendid!" she breathed. "Did you, Miss Denslow?"

Miss Denslow smiled and shook her head. "Not treasure!" she exclaimed.

"Oh, I beg of you, not treasure! Treasure is so banal. And the sailors always mutiny and kill everybody except the hero and the heroine. Oh, please don't let us go after treasure!"

"All right, we won't," Harry spoke promptly. "We strive to please. We—yes, what is it? Oh, coffee. Yes; pass it to the ladies."

A bare-headed steward had come soft-footedly along the deck and was proffering a tray set with tiny cups.

When he came to Lord George that gentleman shook his head. "No; thank you," he said. "I used to drink coffee, don't you know, when I first went to sea, but I found out jolly soon that it wasn't any good."

Harry laughed. "They say champagne is better for that bilious feeling," he returned feelingly. "Will any of you have some?"

Bess shook her head. "No," she said; "we don't want any, but you take Lord George down and see what you can find." She turned to the waiter. "Steward," she said, "see if there is any champagne in the cooler and get it out for Mr. Harry."

Harry got up, laughing. "That means we are not wanted here, Lord George," he said. "I guess Bess wants to talk to Miss Denslow about her lessons. Come along and let's sample that wine."

The two men wandered off along the swaying deck. When they were gone, Bess leaned forward. "I'd like to shake that man," she exclaimed viciously. "He gets on my nerves. I may be a schoolgirl, but I'll show him a thing or two before this trip is over. See if I don't!"

Miss Denslow smiled comfortably. "I don't doubt it, my dear," she said. "But don't be too hard on him. He seems to be a nice enough man."

Harry and Lord George came back along the dim deck. Lord George sat down, but Harry continued to stand. "I think I'll turn in," he said. "That champagne wasn't quite what it is cracked up to be. I think—yes, I'm sure I had better turn in."

Who is the governess? and what is there between her and Lord George?

Made Name as Sculptor

Clark Mills was an American sculptor, born in Onondaga county, N. Y., December 1, 1815. He died January 12, 1883. In 1848, when he was on the eve of leaving for Europe to study the art of sculpture, he received a commission to erect an equestrian statue of General Jackson. According to the story, Mills had never even seen an equestrian statue. He, however, set to work, designed his model and then found it necessary to learn the art of bronze casting, inasmuch as there was no one in this country prepared to mold his figure in bronze. The statue of General Jackson by Mills is in Lafayette square, Washington, and a replica is in New Orleans.

Egyptian Water Clocks

Casts of two ancient Egyptian water clocks have just been presented by the Egyptian government to the Science museum, South Kensington, London, England. One of the clocks comes from Karnak, and dates from the reign of Amenhotep II, 1400 years before Christ. The other is from Edfu, in the Ptolemaic epoch. From an examination of these clocks and the scale of measurements recorded on each, it appears that the "hour" of that remote period was a variable length, being one-twelfth of the length of the day or night of the particular time of the year. A study of these ancient timepieces is regarded as important in the comparison of astronomical observations.

NERVOUS & HALF-SICK WOMEN

Relieved by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

These Three Letters Prove It

Lowell, Mass.—"I am sending you a few lines to let you know what good your medicine has done for me. I want you to let every one know that it has helped me in nervous troubles. I have four children and you know there is a lot to do where children are. They would come in from school and they would start telling me about their little troubles but I could not stand it. I had to send them away. I could not even walk on the street alone I was so nervous. I found one of your books and read it and then I saw in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I got it and had taken one bottle when I saw a change in myself. I was surprised. The children can talk all they want to now and it does not bother me. I am still taking the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. JOSEPH LEMERE, 84 South Street, Lowell, Mass.

Felt Like A New Woman

Springfield, Missouri.—"For four or five months I was run-down, nervous, my back ached and I did not feel like doing a thing. Sometimes my legs ached and felt like they would break and I had a hurting in my sides. I had been reading in the newspapers the letters of other women who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and the advertising of it appealed to me so I bought some and saw results in al-

Peculiar Cup Unearthed

Shells from George Hammond's field, Damariscotta, part of the famous shell heaps on Round Top, are being hauled to make a surface for a roadway on the Walker place at Gamage's Point, says the Lewiston Journal. While loading a truck with the shells, Caleb Barstow found a curious implement in perfect condition. It is apparently a cup. It is pottery two and a quarter inches across the top and three inches long, perfectly conical in shape. It has no base; the bottom ending in a point as if the user stuck it in the ground when he put it down. It has exactly the shape of the top of a wine glass with the stem broken off. The wall is thick, but the cup is perfectly symmetrical. Marks on the outside show the smoothing efforts of the maker and the baked clay has fragments of iron pyrites mixed with it. Along with it were unearthed bits of human bones and deer's antlers.

SWAMP-ROOT FOR KIDNEY AILMENTS

There is only one medicine that really stands out pre-eminent as a medicine for curable ailments of the kidneys, liver and bladder.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root stands the highest for the reason that it has proven to be just the remedy needed in thousands upon thousands of distressing cases. Swamp-Root makes friends quickly because its mild and immediate effect is soon realized in most cases. It is a gentle, healing vegetable compound.

Start treatment at once. Sold at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation, send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for sample bottle. When writing, be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

Cemetery Centuries Old

Urns containing the ashes of human beings believed to have been cremated 2,600 years ago have been discovered at Wendon, in the valley of the Weser. Dr. Jacob Friesen, who made the find of 127 graves, believes he has unearthed a cemetery of agriculturists who inhabited the Weser district several centuries before Christ walked in Galilee.

The Woman Who Knows

New Albany, Ind.—"I had a trouble for about a year that was very weakening. I doctored for it but it didn't seem to do much good, so I thought I would try Dr. Pierce's medicines which I had heard so much about. I took five bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription' and two of the 'Pain-Expeller' and I feel like a different woman. I recommend Dr. Pierce's medicines to all suffering women."—Mrs. George E. Mott-weller, 1747 Shelby St.

You can always get Dr. Pierce's family medicines at your neighborhood store, in tablets or liquid.

most no time. I had hardly been able to do my own work and after taking the Vegetable Compound I felt like a new woman. I recommend it to my friends who have troubles like I did, and hope they will find the same results."—Mrs. M. CARPENTER, 607 W. Chase Street, Springfield, Missouri.

40 Years Old, Feels Like 20

Hagerstown, Md.—"I was very bad off with backache, a bearing-down feeling in my body and a pain in my left side. I could not be on my feet at times and once I was so bad I walked bent over to one side for three weeks. My sister read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got me a bottle. I got so much relief that I took more until I was well. I am 40 years old and feel like 20. I am sure this medicine will help all women."—Mrs. MARY E. SANDY, 436 W. Franklin Street, Hagerstown, Md.

Over 100,000 women have so far replied to our question, "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?" 98 per cent of these replies are "Yes."

That means that 98 out of every 100 women who take this medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it.

All druggists are having increased sales of this medicine.

New Building Material

A company has recently been organized to make a new building material similar to concrete, but which is really a combination of portland cement and mineralized sawdust. It is claimed to be cheaper, stronger and in nearly every way better than real concrete. This represents one of the many answers to the problem of saving forest waste and thereby lessening forest destruction.—Nature Magazine.

The bazaar given by the Ladies of St. John church on Thursday was a great success. Everything was sold that was on sale.

The Catholic church at Mokena received a new coat of paint last week making a clean and pleasing effect.

Mrs. Chas. Hacker will entertain the 500 club at her home next Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Schmuhl of Joliet attended a banquet at the Edgewater Beach hotel in Chicago on Friday evening given by the United Brotherhood of the Lutheran church.

Mrs. Minnie Randolph of Joliet is visiting with her mother, Mrs. Emma Schmidt in Mokena.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Spiess entertained at dinner in their home last Sunday in honor of the birthdays of their son Raymond and Mr. Peter Spiess of Mokena. A sumptuous dinner was served at noon and out door games enjoyed after. The following were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Spiess, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Spiess and Howard and Edith, Mr. and Mrs. John Kohl and sons, Mansfield and Donald, Mr. and Mrs. John Reiter and the Misses Edna and Mable Reiter and Leslie Reiter of Lockport; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Spiess, Harold and Alvin Spiess, Miss Edna Schmuhl, Miss Elinor Stortz Melville Stortz, Miss Eva Groth and Mrs. Bertha Groth.

The first birthday of little Raymond was on October 7th and the 66th birthday of Mr. Peter Spiess was on October 9th.

After the supper, which was served at 4 o'clock all returned to their homes hoping these honored guests would have the pleasure of enjoying many more such events.

Mrs. Carrie Mattes entertained a number of friends and relatives at dinner Wednesday evening, the occasion being her birthday.

WORTH

Mr. B. A. Crandall and Louis Daniel have added another 500 feet of cement sidewalk on their properties on Harlem Ave., and Burr Oak.

Work has been started on 111th street between Mt. Greenwood and Western avenue to convert the same into a cement road. This will make 111th street between Keane Ave., Western avenue to convert the same better than 95th street. If we can next get a cement road between Keane and the Archer road, the Joliet and southern business will be switched through 111th street.

Mr. Martin Molde, who assisted in making preparations for the fire department demonstration was severely burned in so doing, necessitating his losing a week's work at the New Port Boiler works. It would seem that the firm demonstrating the outfit should have had the experience and used proper methods to eliminate all outsiders from any injury. Dr. Schussler of Oak Lawn dressed Mr. Molde's injuries.

Talking about California' weather, what is the matter with Illinois weather when Mr. Shipper reports lilacs now in blossom in his yard?

Born to Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Empe on October 17th, a nine pound girl. Mother and babe doing nicely.

There will be a meeting of the Junior church next Sunday evening October at 6:30. Also an election of Class officers. All the young people are requested to be present. The attendance at Church services Sunday was very good, being one of the best attendance for the past six weeks. The people of the community who have heard the Rev. Mr. Sanders speak, have only words of praise for him and every one is looking forward to a year of accomplishments.

The young peoples' choir sang a special number beside leading the congregational singing. Rev. Sanders held a meeting of boys at 4 P. M. to talk about Boy Scout work and hopes to organize a troop among the boys from 12 to 15.

The Ladies Aid society of the church will hold a cafeteria supper and social on October 31st.

The Sunday School attendance last Sunday was 46 and the 2nd Sunday in November was set as Rally Day at which time the Children will render a program to which the community is urged to attend and encourage the children and teachers. Next week we will have something to say about evening services watch for it.

EMMERSON, LAWYER E. CARLSTROM

Republican Nominee
Veteran of Two Wars
and of the Bar.

Veteran of two wars and veteran lawyer though he is still a young man, E. Carlstrom, the Republican candidate for attorney general, began his career as a soldier at the age of twenty-one years. He served in the Thirty-ninth U. S. Infantry in the Philippine Islands, August 26, 1899 to May 6, 1901. At the end of the war he began the study of law and was admitted to practice in Illinois in 1903. With the exception of two years' service in the late war he has practiced law continuously since.

He was elected city attorney of Aledo, Ill., for four years; and elected state's attorney of Mercer county in 1916 by the largest vote ever given a county officer in the history of the county.

In March, 1917, he resigned as state's attorney of Mercer county to serve his country in the World war as a member of the Thirty-third division. He was overseas one year and returned to his law practice in Aledo.

In November, 1919, he was elected a delegate to the constitutional convention and served with distinction in the deliberations of that body.

Gov. Len Small named Carlstrom a member of the state tax commission shortly after his election as governor. Later he was named chairman of the commission, and as such was instrumental in cutting thousands of dollars from the tax bill of Illinois farmers by reducing land values. He worked tirelessly to cut the farmers' taxes and at the same time keep the state tax rate down.

Carlstrom has been a Republican all his life and has labored ceaselessly for the party throughout the state. He is an able lawyer, a student of government and public affairs, and a speaker of ability.

Service men throughout the state know of Carlstrom's splendid service record, but he dismisses it briefly.

Unable to get parental consent to join the army at the beginning of the Spanish-American war, he waited until he was twenty-one years old and enlisted in the Thirty-ninth Volunteers. He had sixteen months' service in the Philippines and was in four engagements.

In the World war he went overseas as a member of the One Hundred and twenty-third artillery, but was on detached duty and saw no action in any of his engagements.

He has been active in the affairs of the American Legion since its organization. He attended the three first conferences for the organization of the Legion in Paris, and has served three years as executive committee member of the Illinois branch. He is a life member of the One Hundred and Twenty-third artillery, a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and was national commander of the Spanish-American War Veterans in 1921-22.

EMMERSON COLLECTS FOR THE HARD ROADS

This Year's Returns Are Greatly in Excess of Estimates.

The office of the secretary of state will collect $16,000,000 in fees before the end of the present year, according to latest figures made available today by Secretary of State Louis L. Emmerson, who is a candidate for reelection.

Up to October 1 the office had collected $15,725,000 this year. With three months of the year remaining the total collected will reach $16,000,000. Of the $15,725,000 collected to date, $11,000,000 is from the sale of automobile licenses and $4,302,000 is corporation and miscellaneous fees.

Before Secretary Emmerson took charge of the office the total annual collections amounted to $1,800,000 of which less than $600,000 was in addition to the automobile fees.

The funds derived from the sale of automobile licenses are paid directly into the road fund, but the $5,000,000 collected from other sources goes into the general fund to be used to help pay the expenses of the state government.

When the $60,000,000 bond issue act was passed by the general assembly sponsors of the movement figured the saturation point in automobiles would be reached in 1925 and that this saturation point would raise $6,000,000 annually.

Instead of $6,000,000 being the maximum amount that could be raised by the sale of licenses, the fees grew to $10,000,000 last year and there is every indication they will exceed $12,000,000 this year.

It is upon this showing the assertion is so confidently made that the hardroad system of Illinois, as planned by Governor Small, can be built and maintained without a dollar of direct taxation. These fees, greatly in excess of the estimates, will not only take care of the maintenance of the roads, but will pay the interest on the $60,000,000 bond issue and the proposed $100,000,000 issue and pay off the bonds themselves as they fall due.

Farmers! Do You Want Higher Prices for Your Products?

Just now the average price for farm products is 20 per cent higher than a year ago. The average is climbing all the while. It only requires a brief retrospect of history to prove this always happens under Republican management of the affairs of government.

Republican management in the past has always opened the factories.

Open factories make buyers for the farmers' products, buyers make substantial prices and substantial prices make work lighter by providing money to buy modern facilities—this increases production and makes happy homes.

There is no magic, legerdemain, hocus-pocus manipulation by which a demagogue politician can legislate the farmer or anyone else into prosperity.

Good business men, who have made good, placed at the head of the government, national, state or county, means stability, and stability means success.

So the election November 4 is your business. It does make a difference, it always has and always will from a selling point of view.

Furthermore, it makes a difference from a tax point of view.

Lower Taxes Have Come Under Republican Management---Both National and State

If Republicans are continued in office, reductions will continue in expense of operation and better markets will open for all that the farmer raises.

IMPROVED SERVICE AT REDUCED RATES

Revenue of Illinois Utilities Cut $25,000,000, but They Grow Bigger and Better.

Accepting rate reductions which total $25,000,000 a year, the public utility concerns of Illinois are giving their customers the best service they have ever furnished, under the supervision of the Illinois commerce commission, appointed by Gov. Len Small. Improved service at lower rates, therefore, instead of being paradox, is a demonstrated fact.

Exclusive of steam railroads, over which it has only a limited jurisdiction, the commission has, since its organization three and a half years ago, entered orders which save the consumers this $25,000,000 a year. These orders were not all entered at one time; they have been in effect on an average, however, of two and a half years. Therefore, the total saving to consumers thus far reaches the extraordinary total of $62,000,000.

The records of the commission show these rate reductions affect utilities operating in 62 counties in Illinois, and that 450 communities were benefited by them. By classes of utilities, the reductions were: Gas utilities, $5,000,000; telephone utilities, $2,000,000; transportation utilities, including elevated lines, $13,000,000; electric power and light utilities, $5,000,000.

The policy of the regular body appointed by Governor Small has not been simply to bring about rate reductions, although that has been one of its chief objectives. Better service has been the chief purpose. The consumer is interested as much in good service as he is in lower rates. The records of the commission show and he utilities themselves boast that their service at this time is the best that it has ever been in Illinois.

To get improved service has required a great deal of what is called "new money" to be invested in the utilities concerns. A fact not generally known is that no utilities concern can issue new stock or new bonds, without securing authority from the Illinois commerce commission. Before it authorizes any utility concern to expand its capital or to increase its bond issues, the commission must know for what the money is to be spent, and while it does not guarantee the stocks or bonds to the public, it does, in effect, certify that the money obtained by the sale of new stocks or bonds is to be expended for legitimate purposes.

Since you know that the present commission has held office it has authorized stocks and bonds in the gross amount of $863,000,000. It is, of course, universally known that in the war period the equipment of utilities companies was permitted to run down. This tremendous total was used either to restore utility properties to good condition or to extend the service of these concerns.

Few people realize the immensity of the total investment in public utilities in Illinois. That investment at the end of 1919 was $1,133,995,705; at the end of the year 1923, it was $1,362,456,457, an increase of $228,460,752 for service extensions and betterments.

Few people realize, either, that the securities representing this tremendous investment are largely owned by the people of the state. But they are. For instance, one of the largest concerns of the state boasts that over 97 per cent of its stock is owned in Illinois.

In regulating rates the commission kept in mind that its supreme duty was to get the lowest rates possible without impairing the investment, because an impaired investment would mean poor service, and good service is what all utility users insist upon having.

Service betterments also entailed an immense amount of work. In this period the commission held 4,682 formal hearings and disposed of 7,625 informal complaints, all bearing upon service.

In the same period, 314 railroad crossings were investigated and orders were issued for either gates, watchmen, wig-wag signals, subway or overhead crossings, all in behalf of public safety.

During the 1922 and 1923 grain shipping seasons the commission was called upon to provide care for the farmers' products. There were serious "car famines," and the pleas reaching the commission for relief were urgent. The commission accepted the responsibility of relieving the situation, and did relieve it through numerous conferences with railroad heads and by keeping constant watch over railroad terminals and divisions to keep cars moving.

If Governor Small is re-elected, the policy of lower rates, better service and protection for the public will be followed for another four years.

Under Len Small as governor the Illinois National Guard has made an enviable record among the National Guards of the country.

Reports for the year have just been completed and show the strength gain of the Illinois Guard was one-third that of the entire country. The gain in Illinois was 1,612, while that of the entire country was only 5,000.

The Illinois Guard tripled its strength since 1920, when Len Small became governor.

TINLEY PARK

(Editors Note: On account of a heavy rush of news and advertising matter at press time last week, we had to omit many Tinley items, much to our regret and this week we are printing the items which had to be withheld.)

The bazaar given by the Ladies Aid of the Zion church was a great success and the ladies extend a heartly Thank You to all who assisted in making it so.

The rummy card club met at the home of Mrs. K. Hopman last week and Mrs. Stoeckman walked home with the prize.

Mr. Geo. Stoeckman has resigned his position as teacher at the Oak Forest school owing to illness which we hope will not last long.

Last Friday the children of the intermediate room of the public school, had an outing in the woods accompanied by their teacher Mrs.
Fulton and Mrs. J. Kloepper.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Hick spent Sunday afternoon and evening in Blue Island with their son and wife.

Mrs. Stoeckman went to Chicago last Saturday to meet her niece who just arrived from Germany.
She is a sister of Miss Helen Krae-mer who came to this country a little over a year ago.

A. Messenbrink won the prize package at the bazaar last week which was a radio set donated by the Luther League, so now they will be found at home every evening entertaining their many friends and well wishers.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Firchau are the proud parents of a big 100 per cent boy and that is the reason Grandma Firchau walks with such a proud air and broad smile. Congratulation.

Those who failed to attend the Thanksgiving Harvest service at the Zion Lutheran church last Sunday missed one grand sermon rendered by its pastor Rev. Bukdengagen and it sank into the hearts of all who were there. So keep it in mind and bury the hammer and

PALOS PARK

The Palos Womens club met at the home of Mrs. Sevitzer Thursday afternoon October 16. A woman from out of town was present who addressed the members of the club which was very much enjoyed. The hostess served a delicious lunch.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott and family and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Yunker and family motored to Starved Rock last Sunday.

The Father and son banquet
given at the Palos Improvement Club house by the Ladies Aid of the Presbyterian church proved to be a big success. After everybody had found their places all joined in singing "Blest Be The Tie That Binds." A four course dinner was served after which a fine program was rendered. Mrs. Quick sang a group of songs, Miss Judith Strom gave a number of readings, Mrs.
Claude Buck sang a number of Old Time songs. Mr. Francis, on behalf of the guests, thanked the mothers and daughters for their delightful dinner which was so much enjoyed.

Prof. Robinsin, a teacher from the Northwestern University, was the speaker for the evening and he was well worth hearing. The pleasant evening was closed by all singing the last verse of "Blessed Be The Tie."

The biology classes of the Englewood high school visited Palos on October 18th. Miss Belyea and Mr. Hayes of the botany department and Miss Maddock of the zoology department accompanied the group.

Word has been received from
New Mexico from Mr. and Mrs.
Philip Barenz, who with the former sister Anna and the latter mother Mrs. Johnson and son Walter, are having a good trip and enjoyable weather on their auto trip to Los Angeles, Cal. This is the third time this Ford sedan has made that trip.

Little Eileen Walsh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Walsch is doing nicely after the injury she sustained from a fall which caused a broken shoulder.

Mrs. Goodman of Oak Park spent the week end with her sister Mrs. R. Hensel. Sunday Mr. Goodman drove out and with him came Dr. and Mrs. Oak of Chicago. In the afternoon they all went to the Harry Storm woods and were joined there by Mr. and Mrs. Chas.
Schmuhl and a company of their friends of Joliet. A good time was had and after having supper in the timbers all resorted to the Hensel home in Mokena.

Mrs. Fred Steinhagen has returned to her home in Mokena from St.
Joseph hospital in Joliet. Their little son who was born to them
two weeks ago died and was buried in Joliet.

daughter have returned from a visit in Florida with Mrs. Kolber's parents.

7th GRADE NEWS

The boys of the sixth, seventh and eighth grades went to Joliet Saturday. From there they went to Pilcher Park where they hiked five or six miles. They then went to a theater and saw a show. They all report a fine time.

Miriam Newens of the 6th grade has the highest average in her class, the average being 90.

The best rhyme in sixth language was written by Fern Liess.
Here it is:

Hey Diddle Diddle! The cat's in the tree
Along came three boys. Hey Diddle
Dee!

They threw a stone at the cat in
the tree!
Down fell the cat! Hey Diddle Dee!

A bull frog sat on a log Blinking his eyes at the beautiful skies;

Laughing at the people that passed him by
He said, "They think they are better than I."
